Android 12's most noticeable feature is the new "Material You" UI with system-wide color theming. Simply change your wallpaper, and the phone's UI matches the colors. A smartphone OS of yesteryear had a similar idea years ago, and it was great. You might remember Microsoft's last attempt at a smartphone OS, Windows Phone. It was ahead of its time in many ways, but ultimately, lack of app support was its biggest downfall. However, one thing that Windows Phone absolutely nailed was its "Metro UI" design. RELATED: Android's "Material You" Theming Is Great, but Don't Expect Samsung to Use It Windows Phone and Android never looked remotely similar, but Material You and Metro UI do share an important feature. Windows Phone allowed you to select a light or dark theme and a secondary "Accent" color, just like you can now in Windows 10 and 11. That accent color choice could be found all throughout the UI. The most noticeable place where you could see the accent color was right on the home screen. Windows Phone's "live tiles" used the accent color. Even if an app didn't use the accent color in its UI, most of them still did for the live tile. You could easily fill your home screen with tiles with matching colors. The accent color wasn't just limited to system apps, either. The majority of third-party apps also utilized the accent color. Windows Phone—more than any other smartphone OS that has existed—had the most consistent look from the home screen to the in-app experience. Across the system and third-party apps, it was a very cohesive experience. Android 12 is attempting something similar with Material You. Rather than manually selecting an accent color, it's derived from your wallpaper. You can slightly change the colors by choosing a different color palette, but you can't select a specific color. If you don't want to use the wallpaper for the theme, you only get four color choices. Windows Phone had 20 accent colors to choose from. It wasn't as nuanced as Material You since it was literally just an accent color with a black or white background. Still, you really felt like the phone UI matched your personal style, even without a wallpaper on the home screen—which Windows Phone did eventually get. Of course, there are downsides to this design style, and Android 12 will run into these issues, too. Services that rely on having the same experience across Android and iPhone won't be adopting Material You themes. Many apps have distinct branding that's easily identifiable. The last thing they want to do is "blend in" with the rest of the phone's UI. Many Windows Phone ideas have withstood the test of time. The flat icon style that was introduced with Metro UI is still quite prevalent in software design. In fact, if you turn on Material You theming for icons, you get the same sort of flat icon on a colored shape effect as live tiles. It's all coming full circle. There were many legitimate problems with Windows Phone. It doesn't exist today for some very good reasons. But that doesn't mean that it had nothing to offer the smartphone world. Both Android and Apple's iOS/iPadOS have taken bits and pieces from Windows Phone throughout the years. With Android 12's Material You, someone finally took the best part. RELATED: How to Link an Android Phone to a Windows 10 PC With Microsoft Phone Link While many Microsoft services are available on Android and iOS, the look and feel of Windows Phone and Windows 10 Mobile is missed by many users. While there's no way to make an exact replicate of the now-dead mobile operating system, you can make your Android phone look like a Windows Phone in a few different ways. One option is to use a launcher designed to look like Windows 10 Mobile, but if you want complete customization and the ability to make your phone look like a miniature Windows 10 PC, you'll need to use multiple pieces of software. The customizable option was originally shared by Reddit user DrDisagree. The Live Wallpaper has quite a few steps and requires customization. If you want a simpler solution, scroll down to the guides for SquareHome 3 and Launcher 10. Install Nova Launcher from the Google Play Store. Install Nova Launcher Prime. Install KLWP. Install Pix Pie Icon pack. Download Windows 10 Wallpaper (or any wallpaper you'd like as a background). Make Nova Launcher your default launcher by opening settings, default apps, and selecting Nova Launcher. Open Nova Launcher's Settings. Select Home Screen. Select Dock. Toggle on/off switch to disable the dock. Clear any icons on your home screen by pressing and holding the icon and selecting remove or the x icon. Download KLWP Backup files from Google Drive. This process can vary depending on your Android device. Tap the ellipsis menu in the upper right-hand corner of the download screen. Select download. Once downloaded you should be taken to a screen with the option to import. Select import. Press **OK*. Open KLWP. Tap the hamburger menu. Select Load Preset. Tap the Exported tab. Tap the wallpaper within the tab labeled Windows X. Grant KLWP permissions by selecting Fix Now* and **Allow each time you are prompted to. Swipe the bottom of the screen to get to the Globals menu. Toggle navbar to on. Tap save icon at the top of KLWP. Select fix. Select Set as Wallpaper. Select Home screen. How to customize shortcuts The Live Wallpaper should now be running on your phone. Following these steps will create a copy of what DrDisagree made on Reddit. That means that all the shortcuts that were set up are intact. You can change any of these shortcuts in KLWP's menu. Tap the "Start button" in the lower left-hand corner of your home screen. Select KLWP. Tap any shortcut on the screen you'd like to change and select edit. How to customize the live wallpaper You can also change the look and icons of the wallpaper, though this can require quite a few steps depending on what you'd like to edit. Generally speaking, you can edit them through the menus on the bottom of KLWP. Make sure you're in the Items tab. Tap on the element you want to edit (toggling the check marks on and off will show which element you're editing). When finished making edits select the save icon. As an example, I used these steps to change the Gmail icon to an Outlook icon and changed the background of that square to blue. You can see the result above. How to add install a launcher that looks like Windows 10 Mobile Install Launcher 10 or SquareHome 3 from the Google Play Store. Set the launcher of your choice as the default home screen app on your phone. Our top equipment picks While nothing can exactly replicate Windows 10 Mobile, there are various options that come close to the look. The launchers are an easy option whereas the custom live wallpaper is complex but customizable. SquareHome 3 is a fan-favorite when it comes to replicating the look of Windows 10 Mobile. It supports transparent tiles, Lives Tiles, widgets, and more to give you a Windows feel on your Android device without much work. This setup takes multiple paid apps and a thorough study of the interface of KLWP to get the look that you'd like. But the end result is a phone with a Start Menu clone that feels like a miniature PC in the palm of your hand. You need a few apps to complete this look, though KLWP is the main app that makes this setup possible. Additional Equipment You need a couple other apps to complete the custom wallpaper setup. Nova Launcher Prime (opens in new tab) ($5 at Google Play) This highly customizable launcher is great for any Android setup and also allows the live wallpaper setup to work. Pixel Pie Icon Pack (opens in new tab) ($2 at Google Play) This icon pack provides the rounded icons needed in the live wallpaper look and also looks great on other launchers. Microsoft If your computer runs Windows 10 and you also have an Android phone, you should probably be using Microsoft's Your Phone app. You can do a lot with it, including making and receiving phone calls on your PC. Let's do it! What You'll Need The Your Phone app is preinstalled on Windows 10 PCs. When connected to an Android device, it can mirror your notifications, sync photos, and send text messages. You can also use the app to place and receive calls from your phone through your PC. To make phone calls using the Your Phone app, your devices must meet the following requirements: Your computer must be running Windows 10 with the May 2019 Update or later, and have Bluetooth enabled. Your Android device must be running Android 7.0 or above. Before attempting to use the phone call feature, you'll have to follow the initial setup process for Your Phone on your PC and Android device. RELATED: Why Android Users Need Windows 10's "Your Phone" App How to Make Android Phone Calls From Windows During the initial setup process of the Your Phone Companion app on your Android device, there are a few permissions you have to grant for the phone call feature. First, tap "Allow" to grant the app permission to make and manage phone calls. You also have to grant it access to your contacts so you can access them on your PC. It's also important that you allow the Android app to run in the background. This ensures a stable connection between your phone and PC. After the setup process is complete on your Android device, you can move to the Windows app to finish setting up the phone call feature. First, navigate to the "Calls" tab, and then click "Get Started." A pop-up containing a Bluetooth PIN will appear on your PC. A pop-up containing the same PIN should also appear on your Android device. Make sure the codes match, and then click "Yes" on your PC and tap "Pair" on your Android device. It's possible to use the feature immediately, but you'll only be able to dial numbers. To show your call log, you have to grant permission on your phone; click "Send Permission" to proceed. A notification will appear on your Android device; tap "Open" to launch the permission dialog. Tap "Allow" in the permission pop-up. If you don't see a pop-up, you can manually grant permission. To do so, go to Settings > Apps & Notifications > See All Apps > Your Phone Companion > Permissions, and then select "Allow" under "Call Logs Access for This App." Your recent calls will now show up in the Your Phone app on Windows 10. To make a call from your PC, you can select a recent call and click the phone icon, search for contacts, or use the dial pad. When you receive a phone call, a notification will appear on your PC, and you can click "Accept" or "Decline." That's all there is to it! You can now make and receive phone calls from your PC—no video call or third-party service required.
